Critical Need

Girls' self-confidence begins to drop by age 9. Physical activity levels decline starting at age 10 and continue to decrease throughout adolescence. Fifty percent of girls ages 10 to 13 experience bullying such as name calling and exclusion at a time when peer relationships become more central to girls' lives. Stressors related to COVID-19 continue to negatively impact girls in communities across the U.S.

Curriculum & Coaches

Leading experts in positive youth development create structured and dynamic lessons that use running and other physical activities to promote and support healthy outcomes for girls. The life skills curriculum is delivered by caring and competent coaches who are trained to teach lessons as intended.

An independent study found that 97% of participants learned critical life skills including managing emotions, resolving conflict, helping others, or making intentional decisions at Girls on the Run that they continue to use at home, at school and with their friends.

Chief Executive Officer

As a lifetime advocate for girls' and women's issues, Liz has always encouraged others to recognize the power they have to create and transform their own lives and the world at large. Liz spent the first decade of her professional life in corporate America before transitioning to the nonprofit sector in 1996. It was while working at the YMCA that she first learned about Girls on the Run. Its mission – inspiring girls to be joyful, healthy and confident – profoundly resonated with Liz, and she started volunteering for the organization in 2002. She joined the staff as Chief Operating Officer in 2006 and has served as CEO since 2008. Liz has presided over an incredible period of organizational growth and brings significant expertise to Girls on the Run in setting strategic direction and creating an inclusive culture of empowerment, gratitude and joyful purpose. Liz enjoys singing and dancing - particularly to alt-rock music - and if she won the lottery, she would buy land to rescue as many animals as possible.

Vice President, Council Development

April wanted her daughter Julia, who was 9 at the time, to try new things, especially physical challenges. April figured the best way to encourage Julia to do that was to model bravery and sign up alongside her. As a result, April started a Girls on the Run (GOTR) team in 2013, the first in Solano County, when her family lived in Northern California. Julia participated in GOTR for five years, and April volunteered as her coach for three of those seasons. April has worked at Girls on the Run for eight years, first as the program director at GOTR Napa & Solano, then at GOTR Dallas, and she now works for Girls on the Run HQ as the Vice President, Council Development. Through her work, she helps inspire and empower girls across the country.

Participant Testimonials

If you are a girl that is bad at making friends, nobody listens or understands how you're feeling, and you sit alone every day, that was me. I was that person out of the crowd. Then I joined Girls on the Run. It changed my life. Now I have way more than one friend by the second week of school and I have people who understand me. I used to yell out when I got angry, now I can hold in my temper. I love my life because of Girls on the Run.

Colleen, age 9

Girls on the Run has helped me understand what it means to be a girl. Though it might be difficult, my coaches and friends have taught each other to be kind and respectful to one another and accept each other. It was an amazing experience being part of such a spectacular pack of girls. I will continue to teach others about what I learned with Girls on the Run, and carry it with me for the rest of my life.

Malia, age 11

Parent Testimonials

- 66 This program definitely helped build confidence and brought so many relevant topics to discussion. My daughter was bullied for two years in elementary school, and this program supported her recovery and was an excellent asset in navigating the beginning of adolescence. I think every girl can benefit from lessons on kindness, confidence and self-love. Very grateful.
- Especially during this pandemic it was so nice to have structure, physical 66 activity, connection with peers and it helped her gain physical strength!
- The program does a great job of creating connection and meaningful 66 relationships within the team.
